Fewer Cases—More Time For You

We are “different.”

We don't rely on a high volume of cases generated by massive TV and Yellow Page advertising. We don't claim to handle every type of law under the sun. We don't want to. We don't need to.

Each year, we accept a limited number of injury, accident and disability cases from the hundreds of people who ask us to represent them. We are not a “TV advertising personal injury mill.” We do not allow paralegals and assistants to negotiate your case with the insurance company. Fewer cases mean more time for you and, we believe, better results overall.

Since 1983, BenGlassLaw has represented accident, injury, and disability claimants throughout Virginia. Most of our cases are referred to us by former satisfied clients and by other attorneys and health care professionals. If we accept your case and you are not local to us, we will come to you, anywhere in Virginia.

Sometimes the best advice you can get when you are thinking about a lawsuit is that you do not have a claim that can be won. If that is true, we will tell you. We'll also tell when we think you are better off handling a claim yourself—without an attorney. But, if your case passes our test and we accept it, you can be assured that you will receive personal attention. We will represent you aggressively, keep you up to date on what is happening in your case, and give you advice as to whether you should settle your case or go to trial.

We will explain all fees and costs to you fully before we start working on your case. Together, as a team, we will decide on the best tactics for your case.

Foreword

Why THIS Book?

I wrote this book because, if you are like most people, this is the first time you have been in an accident. You have questions. You are getting calls from the insurance company representatives, wanting to ask “just a few questions.” The insurance company may be pestering you to sign their forms “so we can get the records and handle this for you.” They may even have already offered you money to settle your claim.

You started your search for an attorney, but found that most attorney advertising doesn’t give you any useful information at all about how to find the right lawyer for your case. All of the ads say “hire me, we don’t charge a fee unless we get you money,” but then you realize that ALL personal injury lawyers say that. You soon realized that ads that showed fistfuls of cash, gory accident scenes or platitudes like “We Care For You” or “We Are Aggressive” are 100% meaningless. (Don’t you expect that your attorney will care for you?)

Here Are Some Other Meaningless Headlines You Might See In the Yellow Pages
(Ask yourself: Does this headline help me figure out if this is the right lawyer for me?)

- o Serious Injuries, Serious Results
- o “Why Me?”
- o Can You Get a Lawyer Who Cares?

- o All Accidents and Serious Injuries
- o Accidents and Injuries (Wow, that's original!)
- o We're the Law Firm that Cares About You
- o Legal Help for the Seriously Injured

(I won't even mention the ads that have, as a headline, the firm name! How useful is that?)

I wrote this book for you. So that you could have good information in the quiet of your own home BEFORE you hire a lawyer and before you talk to the insurance adjuster. (Hopefully, you haven't signed forms yet!) You may not even need a lawyer to settle your claim.

MYTHS YOU MIGHT HAVE HEARD FROM FRIENDS, NEIGHBORS AND RELATIVES

- If you write the insurance company a letter and are reasonable, you will get a reasonable settlement proposal.
- When you are in an accident and the insurance company calls you to ask for a recorded statement, you have to give them a recorded statement or they won't settle with you.
- All lawyers who advertise that they handle accident cases have the same ability, tools and experience to handle your case.
- The insurance company for the person who hit you is obligated to pay your medical bills as they become due.
- All lawyers charge the same fees in injury cases.
- The court system is some sort of lottery that will help you get rich.
- Just because there has been an accident and it wasn't your fault, there must be some insurance company that will pay for your bills, lost wages and injuries.

- If a lawyer refers you to a doctor, that is a good idea.
- Juries in Virginia are generous.
- There is a formula for determining settlement value

Tricky Insurance Companies, Meaningless Lawyer Advertising and Frivolous Lawsuits

I am sick and tired of insurance companies taking advantage of people before they have a chance to talk to an attorney. For years, one major insurance company encouraged claimants to not even talk to an attorney before settling the claim. They used fear (the lawyer will take one-third of this check we're about to pay you just for talking to them) to dissuade people from getting good advice.

Guess what? You may not need an attorney to represent you in your case! No one, however, should settle a case without understanding "the system." Typically, for example, the insurance adjuster isn't going to tell you that you might have to turn around and take the check they just paid you and pay it to your health insurance company. They don't care about you.

That adjuster just wants to close the file and get you to release all of your claims.

Here are some other tactics I've seen insurance companies use just to wear you out and get you to go away:

1. Deliberate delay. They know that often you are in a financial squeeze. Even if you have good health insurance, the fact that you aren't working may make it difficult to pay co-pays and deductibles. The insurance company knows you are getting dunned by the doctors, so they take their time with your claim

2. Requesting Unnecessary Information. Insurance companies will insist that you track down every little piece of information before “we can evaluate the claim.” Even if the information they are now asking for would not add a penny to their offer, they are happy to wait another six weeks for you to track it down. Meanwhile, they are earning interest on the money they are NOT paying you.

3. Disputing Medical Treatment. Even though I’ve never met an adjuster who went to medical school, they seem to know just what treatment is right for you! Usually, they “know” that you were overtreated because “our computers say you should have been better by now.”

4. Nickel and Dime the Medical Charges. Think about it. If they shave just 5% off your claim and can do that to the millions of claims made each year, they get richer.

5. Misrepresenting Insurance Benefits. This is a big one. They tell you that there’s only $100,000 in coverage. We file suit and “magically” find an umbrella policy! Don’t you think they knew that just by looking on their computers before we filed suit? Of course, they did.

6. Acting Like Your Friend and Making False Promises. Watch out for the adjuster who befriends you, shows up at your house and promises to pay your future medical bills. This is a tactic to stop you from hiring a lawyer. (Believe me, they won’t come around to your house once you have a lawyer.) Those future medical bills? Well, they’ll pay them until their computer says “too much, too much, this claim is costing us too much.”

“Allstate Had a Stated Goal of Reducing Attorney Involvement in the Claims Process To Achieve a Higher Rate of Return on Settlement Claim.”

The Washington Supreme Court hammered Allstate several years ago for its “Quality Service Pledge.”

The Pledge said: Because you have been involved in an accident with an Allstate policyholder, we will provide you with quality service. . . . Your claim representative is dedicated to carrying out this Quality Service Pledge.” Allstate’s internal rules directed the adjuster to act as the individual’s claim representative for unrepresented claimants.

An injured woman settled her case with Allstate based on the Pledge and on the fact that the adjuster gave her extensive “help” in settling her claim. Later, the woman tried to return the $25,000 Allstate had paid her. Allstate said “no, you signed a full release.”

The Court, in allowing the injured woman to proceed with her bad faith lawsuit against Allstate, said that Allstate had a stated goal of reducing attorney involvement in the claims process to achieve a higher rate of return on settlement claims.

It said:

Here, Allstate’s claims adjuster’s conduct fell below that standard when she advised the Joneses to sign a release of liabilities, did not properly advise the Joneses that there were potential legal consequences of signing a settlement check and a release of all claims or refer them to independent counsel, and did not fully disclose the conflict of interest she presented

Jones v. Allstate Insurance Co., 146 Wash.2d 291 (2002).

I wrote this book so that you can be empowered.

I am also sick and tired of outrageous lawyer advertising where lawyers with a reputation for handling hundreds of cases at a time make promises that can't be kept or equate your injury to "cash, cash, cash." Did you notice that almost all of the attorney ads in the Yellow Pages claim personal injury expertise? There are lawyers who NEVER go to court, settling each case for pennies on the dollar. The insurance companies know who they are, so should you.

Frankly, I am also tired of lawyers who file frivolous lawsuits, because frivolous lawsuits hurt everyone by delaying real claims from getting to court. If you are looking for a lottery win, look elsewhere. If you are looking to never have to work again because someone tapped you from behind at a red light, look elsewhere. My firm handles legitimate claims for legitimate claimants. No "quick cash for your pain" here. Sorry.

What You Should Expect From Any Lawyer BEFORE You Make An Appointment For That “Free Consultation”

Before you make an appointment with any lawyer, you should ask them to send you their package of written information which should include, at least the following:

1. A sample fee agreement;
2. A listing of sample verdicts, settlements and testimonials from former clients;
3. A full written explanation of the steps involved in a personal injury lawsuit;
4. A written assurance that they carry errors and omissions (“malpractice”) insurance in the amount of at least one million dollars (you’d probably be surprised to see how many lawyers carry NO insurance.) Ask for this representation in writing.
5. A full explanation of fees and costs, the difference between the two, and how the percentage fee is calculated;
6. A professional biography that outlines at least how long they have been actually going to trial in personal injury cases and indicates whether they are Board Certified or not. (Like doctors, there is no requirement that an attorney be Board Certified to handle your case. Anyone can advertise for any type of case.)

Please Note: Our policy is to not take your case if you are already represented! If you are already represented by an attorney, this book may raise questions for you. Ask your current attorney these questions. Everyone does things a little differently and we do not accept cases in which another local attorney has already been involved. If you are currently represented, use this book to increase your knowledge and to ask questions, but please don't ask us to take on your case. We won't.

This Book is NOT Legal Advice!

The Virginia State Bar requires that I inform you that what is in this book is not legal advice. I'm not your lawyer until you and I enter a written agreement for me to be your lawyer. I know the arguments the insurance company will make — and so should you — even before you file your claim. I can offer suggestions and identify traps, but please do not construe anything in this book to be legal advice about your case, as each case is different and an attorney can only give you quality legal advice when he or she understands the facts involved in your case.

What is a Personal Injury Case?

Let's start at the very beginning: Just what is a personal injury case? Lawyers say that they do "personal injury cases" or "accident cases" or "wrongful death cases" and yet, my wife Sandi tells me that she does not think that everyone understands exactly what this means. Indeed, people who have known me for years will come up to me and ask me for a referral to a car accident attorney! They do this even though I think that they know exactly what it is that I do.

A personal injury, car accident, or wrongful death case is any type of claim where a person has been injured or killed due to someone else's carelessness. If the only damage in your case is that your car got banged up, then you don't have a personal injury case – but you may have a property damage case. We do not handle property damage cases, but there are many lawyers who do so. If both you and your car have suffered an injury, then you have both a personal injury and a property damage claim. In those circumstances, either your insurance company or their insurance company will usually take care of the property damage claim.

If someone's negligence causes the death of another, then this is called a "wrongful death" claim. The law of each state or jurisdiction differs significantly regarding what can be recovered in a wrongful death case. You need an attorney who understands the specialized wrongful death laws of Virginia.

You Are At War—But It's a War That Can Be Won

The day you were injured, you entered a war zone. Insurance companies and some in the government have declared war on injured people and their attorneys. They have waged the war in the media and their propaganda has had a tremendous effect on juries and their verdicts. This is called tort reform. The success that the insurance companies have had in tainting the minds of jurors has emboldened them to not offer fair settlements until you prove to them that you are ready, willing and able to go to trial.

Admit it. Until you or a family member were injured, you, too, may have thought that a personal injury lawyer is a bad person and that people who make claims and file lawsuits are stealing from society. That's what billions of dollars in insurance company advertising will get you!

What Must You Prove to Win Your Case?

Just because you were hurt doesn't mean you are entitled to money. You must prove that someone else was negligent or careless and that it was their negligence or carelessness which caused your injury. If you fail to do this, you lose. If you sue the wrong person, you lose. If you wait too long to sue, you lose. If you had an injury BEFORE the accident, then you are only entitled to be compensated to the extent your injury is now worse.

In Virginia, if you were in any way at fault, you lose. This is known as the law of contributory negligence. This means that if the “other guy” was 99 percent at fault and you were 1 percent at fault, then you cannot recover anything. Sound fair? Hardly! (Again, thank the insurance companies and your Virginia General Assembly. Virginia is one of only three states in the country that has this silly rule. Enlightened states will “compare” the negligence between two people and apportion damages appropriately.)

Before we accept your case, we must be confident that you were not at fault in any way.

Do You Really Need An Attorney To Settle Your Case?

You definitely do not need an attorney for every small injury case. In fact, our office does not even accept cases where there’s little or no property damage or the injuries are minor. Why not? Simple. In the small case, the attorney fee and costs might leave little or nothing for you after your medical bills are paid, and we don’t believe that would be fair to you. If your case is small and you would like to try to handle the case yourself, with our advice, we do charge a small consulting fee. This may save you thousands!

Before you decide whether to hire an attorney...

Did you know that a 1999 study found that insurance companies pay higher settlements to injured people who use an attorney than those who do not?

It's true. In 1999, the insurance industry performed a study to find out if people who had accident claims received more money in settlement by using an attorney than those people who settled on their own. The study was performed by the Insurance Research Council, a non-profit organization that is supported by leading property and casualty insurance companies across the United States. The mission of the IRC (IRCweb.org) is to advance the insurance industry's view on matters crucial to insurance companies. The IRC found that people who used an attorney received, on average, 3 ½ times more money in settlement than those individuals who settled on their own.

Finding a Qualified Personal Injury Attorney?

Choosing an attorney to represent you is an important but daunting task. The decision certainly should not be made on the basis of advertising alone. The Yellow Pages are filled with ads—all of which say basically the same thing. You should not hire based solely on advertising—anyone can buy a slick commercial, and many have.

How do you find out who in your local community is the best for your case? There are certain questions to ask that will lead you to the best person for your case—no matter what type of claim you have. Yes, it will involve some time on your part, but that's OK because the decision you are making may be critical to the success of your case.

In my opinion, the world of personal injury claims is much too specialized for someone who does not handle these cases regularly. Too many times we have looked at cases that have been handled by general practitioners, tax lawyers, criminal lawyer and family law lawyers. That's just no good. Get a specialist. They are out there. (Clue: does the Yellow Pages ad list 27 different “specialties?” Question to ask: how can that be?)

You should be aware that the insurance companies who defend personal injury and accident cases know who the attorneys are in your area who actually go into court to try cases and who do not. The insurance companies use that information to help evaluate their risk. One of the first questions some insurance adjusters will ask when a serious claim comes in is: who is representing the plaintiff? I've heard insurance defense lawyers laugh as they head for trial against one of these non-personal injury attorneys! It's like shooting fish in a barrel for them.

If this information is important to the insurance company, shouldn't it be important to you?

So, How do You Find Out Who is Good in Your Area?

Here Are Some Tips

1. Get our book, The Truth about Lawyer Advertising (TheTruthAboutLawyerAdvertising.com). It will teach you how to "read" the ads.
2. Get a referral from an attorney that you know. He or she will probably know someone who does specialize in your area of need. If you need an attorney in an area of practice that we don't do, call us. We'll help you find the right lawyer for your case.
3. The Yellow Pages can actually be a good source of names. Understand three things, however: First, not everyone advertises in the Yellow Pages. Most of our cases come from referrals from other attorneys or from satisfied clients. Second, be careful about the ads that tout too many different specialties. No one can do everything well. Third, be careful about the full-page ads. This advertising may attract a lot of frivolous cases that can overwhelm an attorney. Make sure that the attorney you hire is selective enough with his or her cases that your important case does not become just one more file in the pile. We know several law firms that went out of business buried under the “weight” of full-page Yellow Pages ads.

4. Your local bar association probably has a lawyer referral service. Understand that lawyers have signed up and paid a fee to be listed in certain specialties. Their names come up on a rotating basis. This is another good source for an initial appointment. Just take the questions we talk about here to that interview. Call and ask for the written information that I mentioned above.
5. Interview several attorneys. Ask each attorney who else handles these cases in your area. If they won't give you any names, leave. Ask this question of each attorney. The names you see showing up on various lists of recommendations are probably good bets for attorneys doing these cases in your area on a regular basis.
6. Be careful about any attorney who rushes you to sign a contingent fee agreement. A contingent fee is not the right fee for every type of personal injury case. You should take the agreement home, read it and understand it. We have heard of instances where fee agreements are delivered by courier within hours of the time you first call the attorney's office. That's right, before you even have had a chance to meet with the attorney. This is outrageous.
7. Run from any attorney who calls you first.
8. Beware of “runners.” A “runner” hangs out at the police station or listens to police radio to “run” to accident scenes or hospital rooms to encourage victims to sign contracts with attorneys. Outrageous does not begin to describe this practice!

9. Beware of any attorney who contacts you in writing just after you have had an accident for the sole purpose of soliciting your claim. If you are contacted “cold,” it should be for the sole purpose of providing you free information that you can study in your own home, on your own time, not soliciting your case.
10. Beware of any attorney who has a stable of doctors he wants to refer you to. You can tell who these attorneys are by the rack of doctors’ cards they keep in their office. Local judges have said that when an attorney makes a referral of a client to a doctor for a garden-variety case, this is the “kiss of death” for that case. It’s OK to get a referral to a specialist health care provider, but run from any attorney who has a stack of doctor or chiropractor cards in his office.
11. Here are factors and good points to look for and question your attorney about. Note that not every attorney will meet all of these criteria, but the significant absence of the following should be a big question mark.
 - Experience – obviously, the longer you have been practicing a particular area of the law, the more you will know. Experience can be a big factor in many cases.
 - Experience actually trying cases — ask the attorney how many cases he has actually tried.

Has he or she achieved any significant verdicts or settlements? Does he have a list of verdicts and settlements available that you can look at? Don't accept the "All my cases are confidential" line! The greater your number of cases actually tried and substantial verdicts and settlements achieved, the more likely the insurance companies will respect you. Past results are not a guarantee of the future, but past results do demonstrate some level of experience and success.

- Respect in the legal community—does the attorney teach other lawyers in Continuing Legal Education courses?
- Board Certification—the National Board of Trial Advocacy tests and certifies lawyers. It requires a minimum number of trials and recommendations from judges and opposing attorneys. Read more about the National Board of Trial Advocacy in The Truth About Lawyer Advertising.
- Membership in Best Lawyers in America—a compilation of the Best Lawyers in America, as selected by peers.
- Membership in trial lawyer associations. In our area, you can certainly find a lawyer who is a member of the Virginia Trial Lawyers Association (VTLA) and the American Association for Justice (AAJ). These organizations provide extensive education and networking for trial lawyers.

- Publications—has your attorney written anything that has been accepted for publication in legal journals? This is another sign of respect that the legal community has for his or her skills and experience.

12. Ask your attorney if he or she is licensed in the state where your case will be filed. We believe that an attorney who is not licensed in the state where the case will be filed is at a disadvantage when it comes to negotiating with the insurance company. The insurance companies know who is not licensed and thus cannot actually try the case. We also recently ran across a horror story involving an out-of-state attorney who evaluated a Virginia medical malpractice case. This attorney kept the file for two years and gave it back to the client on the day the statute of limitations was expiring in Virginia. The problem was that the attorney told the client that he had one more year to file his case, but this was based on the statute of limitations in his own state. The client was then unable to file his case in Virginia. Dealing with a lawyer who is not licensed in Virginia can be another 'kiss of death' to your claim.

Once You Have Decided on an Attorney, Make Sure You Both Understand Your Goals and You Understand How the Relationship Between Your Attorney and You Will Work

How will your attorney keep you informed about the progress of the case? Many attorneys send a copy of every piece of correspondence and pleadings in the case to the client. Your attorney should also take time to explain the “pace” of the case and in what time frames the client can expect activity to take place.

Find out who will actually be working on your case. Make sure that you and your attorney have a firm understanding as to who will be handling your case. There are a lot of things that go on with a case that do not require the senior attorney’s attention. On the other hand, if you are hiring an attorney because of his or her trial skills, make sure that that person is going to be trying your case for you.

What Does an Experienced Personal Injury Attorney Do for You in a Case?

Here is a more or less complete list of the tasks your attorney may be called to do in your case. Remember that each case is different, and that not all of these tasks will be required in every case. They are:

- Initial interview with the client
- Educate client about personal injury claims
- Gather documentary evidence, including police accident reports, medical records and bills
- Analyze the client's insurance policy to see whether there are any coverages which the client has that may pay all or a portion of the medical bills while the claim is pending
- Analyze the client's insurance coverages and make suggestions as to what coverages should be purchased for future protection
- Interview known witnesses
- Collect other evidence, such as photographs of the accident scene
- Analyze the legal issues, such as contributory negligence and assumption of the risk

- Talk to the client's physicians or obtain written reports from them to understand the client's condition fully
- Analyze the client's health insurance policy or welfare benefit plan to ascertain whether any money they spent to pay your bills must be repaid
- Analyze the validity of any liens on the case. Doctors, insurance companies, welfare benefit plans and employers may assert that they are entitled to all or part of the client's recovery
- Contact the insurance company to put them on notice of the claim, if this has not already been done
- Decide with the client whether an attempt will be made to negotiate the case with the insurance company or whether suit shall be filed
- If suit is filed, prepare the client, witnesses and healthcare providers for depositions
- Prepare written questions and answers and take the deposition of the defendant and other witnesses
- Produce to the defendant all of the pertinent data for the claim, such as medical bills, medical records, and tax returns

- Go to court to set a trial date
- Prepare for trial and/or settlement before trial
- Prepare the client and witnesses for trial
- Organize the preparation of medical exhibits for trial
- Organize the preparation of demonstrative exhibits for trial
- Prepare for mediation and/or arbitration
- File briefs and motions with the court to eliminate surprises at trial
- Take the case to trial with a jury or judge
- Analyze the jury's verdict to determine if either side has good grounds to appeal the case
- Make recommendations to the client as to whether or not to appeal the case.

More Insurance Company Tricks

Wrongly telling their own insureds that they have to go through the careless driver's insurance company to get their car appraised/fixed since it was "the other guy's fault." This simply is not true. You paid your insurance company a premium for service. It is often quicker to go through your own insurance company to get your car fixed. Yes, you will pay the deductible up front but your insurance company should get that back from the other insurance company and reimburse you.

Entering a secret "side agreement" with the careless driver's insurance company to get reimbursed for medical bills it paid and never telling you about it.

Secretly videotaping you and talking to your neighbors about you just to get some "dirt" on you to use in settlement negotiations.

Trolling YouTube.com, Google and other Internet social networking sites for your postings and videos of activity and sometimes attempting to be a "cyber-buddy" to get you to admit to certain facts

Putting their own insured at risk of financial ruin by failing to settle claims fairly and by failing to advise their insured of settlement offers. In several cases, we have seen one of the largest car insurers in the world subject their own customer to large verdicts and recorded judgments against them because they refused to settle cases fairly. Suppose a negligent driver has only $100,000 in insurance (a very low number, considering the cost of medical care) but the case is legitimately worth several hundred thousand dollars. The insurance company makes a low-ball offer that is rejected. The jury returns a fair verdict of several hundred thousand dollars. The insurance company only has $100,000 to pay, leaving their own customer with a recorded judgment of several hundred thousand dollars. Try getting a mortgage with a judgment like that against you!

Beware of the ERISA Lien “Monster”

You should be aware that often, if your medical bills were paid by health insurance of an employer’s health plan, the health insurance company or plan may want you to reimburse it out of any personal injury recovery. Your “insurance” turns out to be not insurance at all, but a “loan.” The laws in some states, including Virginia, generally prohibit such claims by insurance companies, but they make the claims anyway. We have seen cases where the insurance companies hired lawyers to make the claims for them. What they don’t tell you is that this area of law, known as “reimbursement or subrogation” is actually quite complicated and is sometimes governed by a federal law called ERISA (The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974). Your attorney must understand the implications of ERISA on your case.

There are other liens that may affect your total recovery in the case. If your bills were paid by Medicare, Medicaid, the United States Government (including “free” military care) you may be forced to pay back a portion of your settlement.

11 Questions to Ask The Insurance Company
Who Wants You to “Just Sign a Few Forms and Give us a Statement:”

1. Will you put in writing that the accident was not my fault?
2. Will you tell me how much insurance the person who hit me has?
3. If I give you a recorded statement, will you give me a copy of the recorded statement that you already got from the person who caused the accident?
4. If I sign this medical release, will you immediately forward to me a copy of everything you get using my release?
5. Will you tell me how much money you have set aside in “reserve” to pay my claim?
6. Will you give me copies of the recorded statements that you have taken from any witnesses?
7. Will you tell me now whether there is any “umbrella” insurance coverage available to cover my claim?
8. Will you tell me whether you have already done video surveillance of me?
9. Will you give me a copy of any “index” information that you have already gotten from your computer system?
10. Will you give me a copy of any financial information that you may have already obtained on me?
11. Will you tell me which of my neighbors you have already interviewed?

Good Luck! Our experience is that the information sharing with insurance companies is a “one-way street.” “You give to them and they don't give to you!

The Legal Process in Personal Injury Cases

After gathering all of the facts and medical records, and after your medical treatment has ended, your attorney will develop a settlement strategy with you and attempt to get your case settled with the insurance company. There are many reasons to settle a case, including the fact that we are living in a very conservative part of the country as far as jury verdicts go, your attorney fee will be less if your case can be settled, and your costs will usually be less than if the case goes to trial. Your attorney will help you analyze the insurance company's best offer and compare it to what you might net by going to trial. Of course, you must know that every case (even "obvious" cases) can be lost.

Sometimes, attempting to negotiate with the insurance company before filing suit is not a worthwhile endeavor. Insurance companies sometimes use pre-suit negotiation only to attempt to find out as much about you, your lawyer and your doctor as they can. It is generally a dangerous practice to wait until the statute of limitations has almost expired to file suit. I have seen other attorneys do this, only to find that the defendant they sued is either not the correct defendant or is now blaming someone else.

While there are legitimate reasons for delaying filing suit, there is no excuse for the practice whereby an attorney waits until the last moment to see if the insurance company will settle your case. Sometimes out-of-state lawyers attempt to represent people with Virginia claims.

When the claims do not settle, they often try to find an attorney to file the case on time. (I've received plenty of those last-minute calls. I reject them. I lead a balanced life and don't need to take on problems other attorneys have caused by their delay in taking action. Their inaction is not going to be my crisis.) Some accident victims are ill served by hiring attorneys who are not licensed in the jurisdiction where suit must be filed.

Once the lawsuit is filed, both sides engage in the legal process called discovery. Each party is allowed to investigate what the other side is going to say at trial. The defendant will be permitted access to your medical and work history, including your income records. You may have to give a deposition under oath and you may be required to submit to a medical examination by a physician of the defendant's choosing. The defendant is also subject to discovery. He will answer written and oral questions about his own background and he will have to give sworn testimony about the incident at issue.

Insurance Company Will Use to Justify a Low Payment
(or outright denial of your claim)—

1. You weren't wearing your seatbelt.
2. Your car had defective equipment.
3. You were drunk or impaired by legal or illegal drugs.
4. You didn't see our guy blow the red light, so it's your fault you got hit.
5. You exaggerated the bad guy's speed or conduct, so you are not credible.

What Cases Do We Not Accept?

- Cases involving minor impact. Bumps and scratches on your rear bumper do not make for a good case in Virginia. Sorry.
- Cases with less than $2,000 of expected total medical bills and lost wages. Cases with lower damages than this can usually be settled on your own or with a less-experienced attorney. In calculating your medical bills, look at the full amount charged by your doctor, not the smaller amount actually “allowed” by the insurance company.
- Cases with significant pre-existing injury in the same body part. If you have had three back surgeries before this accident, then the chance of a jury awarding you a substantial amount of money for your back injuries here is very low.
- Cases where the statute of limitations will soon run. Your delay is not going to become my crisis.
- Cases where you were charged in the accident.
- Cases where you assumed the risk of your injury. Please don't call us if you spent three hours in a bar and let your drinking buddy drive or if you decided to test to see how fast your mom's Lexus could really go. You got what you deserved, sorry.
- Your case has already been filed by another attorney. We like to do things our way.
- Cases where you have a significant prior criminal history.

Well, Are There Any Cases Left?

Yes, there are, and we represent lots of accident victims. Our clients are positive thinkers, not whiners or frauds.

THE FIVE DEADLY SINS THAT CAN WRECK YOUR CASE

1. The Client is Referred by the Lawyer to a Doctor or Chiropractor

Some local judges call this “service” provided by some lawyers “the kiss of death” to a claim. (One long-time Virginia attorney was disbarred because he referred clients to a chiropractor and then told his clients to lie about the referral when asked in deposition.) The problem is that jurors are highly suspicious of lawyers and doctors who have a referral relationship. While the client may not know how many of that lawyer’s clients have been referred in the last 12 months to a particular doctor, you can bet that the insurance company knows it or will find out about it. How credible do you think that doctor’s testimony will be when the jury finds out that he treated 50 patients from the same lawyer last year?

Are there exceptions to this rule? Yes, there are.

You may have a very special need for a doctor with a special expertise. It is perfectly legitimate for the attorney to make that suggestion/recommendation. If every client, though, is getting referred to the same chiropractor or the same orthopedist, then that is a huge problem. (So beware of the attorney who has a stack of doctor/chiropractor cards in his office. You need to ask the right questions and fully understand the business relationship, if any, between that attorney and the doctor.)

2. Hiding Past Accidents From Your Lawyer

Once you begin a case, the other side will be interested in knowing how many past accidents you have been in. The reality is that they probably already know the answer or have easy access to that information. All insurance companies subscribe to insurance databases and often the only reason they ask you this question is to find out if you are an honest person.

If you have been in other accidents, your lawyer can investigate this and make a determination as to whether this is a valid problem in your case or not. If you do not tell your lawyer, however, and you misrepresent your accident history to the insurance company, then it is almost guaranteed that you will lose your case.

One former client told us that she didn't think she needed to disclose prior accidents to us because "It didn't matter." The insurance company already knew and when they told the judge, the case was lost. While we could have dealt with a past accident had we known about it, the mistake cost our client $75,000.

Another client gave our confidential analysis of the good parts and bad parts of her case to her father. He gave it to his insurance company which gave it to the defense lawyer. Bye-Bye case! "Confidential" means CONFIDENTIAL.

3. Hiding Other Injuries

It goes without saying that you should be upfront and honest with your attorney about any injuries that occurred before or after this accident. Again, if you saw a doctor or other healthcare provider, then there is a record in existence that the insurance company will find. Your lawyer can deal with this if he knows about it. If you lie about it, and the insurance company finds out, then your case is over. Remember, there is no privacy in America today. When you make an insurance claim, your life becomes an open book.

If your doctor keeps “two sets of records” because she’s been treating you for years and you don’t make sure that we get ALL of the records, we’ll fire you. Simple as that.

4. Not Having Accurate Tax Returns

In almost every case, a claimant will have lost income because of the accident. You will only be able to claim that lost income if your past tax returns are pristine. You don’t want to risk going to jail by claiming a loss of income, only to have your past tax returns not back up your claim. Again, being honest with your attorney is the only way to be, because he or she can deal with the problem if they know about it.

Be aware that you will most certainly be required to produce your tax returns if you file a lawsuit and claim lost wages. If you are a liar and a cheat, this will come back to haunt you in your injury case and I don’t want my name associated with liars and cheats.

5. Misrepresenting Your Activity Level

Insurance companies routinely hire private investigators to conduct videotape surveillance. Now, they also troll

YouTube and other social networking sites or “Google” you. If you claim that you cannot run, climb or stoop, and you get caught on videotape or brag about break dancing on the Internet, you can forget about your claim. There is no explanation (other than “you got my brother, not me”) that can overcome the eye of the camera. One of our former clients claiming a “back injury” got caught on his roof repairing shingles. That didn’t look so good and I fired him as a client when I found out.

The Insurance Companies Will Stop at Nothing to Destroy Your Claim

This story is almost unbelievable, yet Progressive Insurance Company once ADMITTED to these actions. It seems that the insurance company actually hired private detectives to JOIN A CHURCH in order to discredit a couple suing the insurer.

Progressive Corp. Chief Executive Glenn Renwick later apologized for the use of private detectives.

- What the investigators and Progressive people did was wrong - period,” Renwick, head of the third-largest U.S. auto insurer, said in a statement. “I personally want to apologize to anyone who was affected by this.

Apparently, the Progressive detectives worked their way into and taped support group sessions.

This conduct is outrageous but, unfortunately, not all that unusual. Victims of car accident cases must be ever vigilant, because these companies will stop at nothing.

Progressive has been sued on this matter and based upon the admission of its CEO, should expect to pay millions.

OUR CASES AND VERDICTS

Here is a sampling of cases that we have handled. There are others at our website at www.BenGlassLaw.com. Remember that each case is different. This is not a representation of what YOUR case is worth. Every lawyer with any experience has won cases he probably should have lost, and lost cases that he expected to win. We are no different in that regard. Once a case is in the hands of the jury, it is out of our control. We do believe, however, that significant trial experience in big cases is one factor that people may use to choose one attorney over another. Many of our clients have told us that this is true. With these disclaimers in mind, here are some of our results:

$1 Million Verdict Against Internist for Misdiagnosis of Rectal Cancer.

Here, the internist ignored complaints of rectal bleeding for years (thought they were hemorrhoids.) He ultimately diagnosed “irritable bowel syndrome” when the rectal cancer was actually quite large. His insurance company did not want to settle.

His former patient underwent radiation and chemotherapy and two major operations. He had his rectum removed and lost all sexual function. The jury awarded $1 million dollars. The doctor is still practicing.

$3.97 Million Verdict Against Local Urologist

A federal court jury in Alexandria, Virginia, awarded one of my clients nearly $4 million against a local urologist. The case, Williams v. Schwartz, represents one of the largest medical malpractice verdicts in Virginia at the time.

In that case, the plaintiff had gone to the doctor for implantation of a penile prosthesis. The plaintiff had been impotent due to vascular insufficiency and diabetes. Mr. Williams alleged that the doctor, in addition to performing the implant surgery, attempted to do a penile lengthening procedure on him without ever telling him! It turned out that this was the first penile lengthening procedure the doctor had ever done. The plaintiff alleged that the lengthening procedure led to further diminution of blood supply to the penis and eventual loss of the penis in its entirety.

What the patient did not know at the time that he saw the doctor was that he had a history of malpractice claims and verdicts and that his license had previously been revoked by the Commonwealth of Virginia and that his privileges at area hospitals were either nonexistent or limited. Further, the doctor had no insurance to cover the claim! We did collect a bunch, though, but it took years!

$2,000,000 Settlement for Man Killed When he Hit Unlit Tow Truck

Our firm, together with my friend Rob Jenner, of Janet, Jenner and Suggs, of Baltimore, Maryland, represented the family of a 74-year old man killed when he drove his car into the back of a tow truck that had stopped in the “fast lane” of southbound 495 in Prince George’s County, Maryland.

The decedent was survived by a wife of almost 50 years and three adult children.

The case was filed in the Circuit Court of Fairfax County but, because it occurred in Maryland, it involved the application of Maryland law. The Virginia court ruled, however, that Maryland’s “cap” on pain and suffering damages did not apply to this case.

$950,000 Settlement for Man Crushed by Garage Door

Our 42-year old client was on a delivery to a factory in the western part of the state when a 500 pound garage door broke and fell on him, hitting him on the shoulder. The force of the impact caused fractures to his shoulder, ribs, back, femur and heel.

He was hospitalized and then was off work for over one year. When he returned to work, he was able to do so on a part-time basis and it is expected that he will eventually have to change jobs to accommodate his inability to bear weight on his injured heel fully.

His past medical bills were about $60,000 and it is likely that he will need surgery in the future. He had lost about $35,000 in wages and it was projected that his future wage loss would amount to about $280,000, due to the need to work only part time and then eventually change jobs.

$550,000 Settlement For Undiagnosed Broken Neck

In July, we reached a settlement on behalf of a 73-year old gentleman whose broken neck went undiagnosed for over 24 hours in the hospital.

Our client had been involved in a minor car accident and complained of back pain. He was taken to the hospital, where CT scans were ordered of his head and chest, but not his back.

Later, he began to complain of neck pain, yet no health care provider recognized this very serious sign of a potential spinal cord injury.

Our client became paralyzed about 28 hours after he was admitted to the hospital. A settlement was reached with the defendant shortly before trial.

This gentleman died several months later of unrelated conditions.

$500,000 Settlement For Denial Of Disability Insurance Benefits.

Our client was a former attorney who developed fibromyalgia and could not work. We sued her employer's disability insurance company and later settled the case for half a million dollars.

$866,000 Trucking Accident Verdict

A Fairfax County jury awarded a Manassas man $866,000 for injuries he received when a 35-ton tractor-trailer rig hauling contaminated lead waste slammed into the stopped minivan in which he was a passenger. The jury reached the verdict in favor of William James, 56, an auto mechanic and business owner, whose hip was so badly broken that his orthopedic surgeon was not able to fit all of the pieces back together when it was first repaired.

James, co-owner of Evergreen Auto Repair in Haymarket, Virginia, was a passenger in a minivan that was stopped to make a turn on James Madison Highway-Rte. 15- in Haymarket when he was struck by the 18-wheeler. The truck was carrying contaminated lead waste for Envirite, Inc., a Canton, Ohio, corporation that specializes in the recycling of contaminated solids and debris.

The accident occurred when the tractor-trailer, driven by Harold Wood of Spring Grove, Pennsylvania, slammed into the rear of a construction van that had slowed to turn in to a restaurant on Route 15. The collision pushed that vehicle several hundred yards down the road and sent the tractor-trailer over the dividing line of the highway and head on into the minivan. One other person was injured in the accident.

Envirite denied that its driver was responsible for the accident, despite Wood's testimony at trial that he had pleaded guilty to improper driving in traffic court and "accepted full responsibility" for the accident.

The jury deliberated about 30 minutes before delivering its verdict which, with prejudgment interest, totals $866,000.

$300,000 Settlement for Fibromyalgia Caused by Car Crash

We settled a very important case involving a 32-year old woman who developed fibromyalgia following an automobile accident. She was injured in an accident at Tyson's Corner, Virginia. She was seen and released in the emergency department and then followed up with a chiropractor, an osteopath and an orthopedist.

She never improved and eventually saw over 23 doctors and other health care providers, including at least five rheumatologists. Each of the rheumatologists diagnosed her as suffering from fibromyalgia. She developed severe "all body" pain and ultimately needed a wheelchair to travel outside of the house.

The defense experts were of the opinion that this was "only a strain" and that she needed no additional treatment. Although the defendant had only $50,000 in insurance, our client was well protected by "underinsured" automobile insurance and we were able to settle her case on the morning before trial.

$500,000 Verdict Against Local Orthopedic Surgeon

In this case, the defendant did a total hip replacement, but when the prosthesis became infected, he ignored it. When he later tried to remove the prosthesis, he fractured our client's femur. She had an infected wound which drained until the day she died. A federal court jury awarded her $500,000.

$305,000 in Medication Error Case

A Fredericksburg jury awarded over $300,000 against Mary Washington Hospital. Our client had presented to the emergency department and had been given Demerol and Phenergan for pain and nausea. He had a clear reaction to these medications and had a respiratory arrest.

He was immediately revived, but should not have been given the exact same drugs several hours later. Unfortunately, the hospital had a system in place whereby the emergency department doctor would dictate a note that would not be placed in the patient's file for over 24 hours. There was no requirement that the doctor make a note in the chart about the medication reaction.

As a result of this carelessness, the patient received the same drugs just hours later after complaining of more pain. This time, he had a far more serious respiratory arrest and, according to his doctor, almost died. He underwent 30 minutes of CPR and suffered a lacerated spleen and liver. He spent several weeks in the hospital in very serious condition. He accrued about $75,000 of medical bills.

The most the hospital ever offered was $100,000. It took the jury just 2 1/2 hours to reach its verdict.

After this case, our client wrote us:

We've been totally satisfied with everything – I was particularly impressed with the way that you pulled everything together – selecting the appropriate witnesses, etc. Several people have commented on how they were glad that someone has taken this action. They feel the hospital needed to be made aware of the need to re-look at internal operating procedures.

$390,000 Award for Leg Severely Fractured by Falling Carpet

Our client was a woman who had her leg severely fractured when a roll of carpet fell on her while she was shopping in a carpet store. She had to have two surgeries to repair the leg and it took her many months to recover.

We contacted the insurance company after she asked us to represent her and we tried to settle the case without filing a lawsuit. The insurance company refused to settle the case and refused to make any offer whatsoever until one month before trial, even though they agreed that they were responsible. Their only offer of $75,000 was refused and the case was tried in federal court in Harrisonburg, Virginia. The jury awarded $390,000. The insurance company did not appeal the verdict.

$375,000 Verdict Against Fairfax County Deputy Sheriff

Our client was a young man driving a motorcycle. He was severely injured when a deputy sheriff negligently pulled out in front of him. The county offered no settlement, relying on the fact that they felt the deputy was immune to a lawsuit.

The jury awarded our client $375,000 and the county appealed the case to the Supreme Court of Virginia. We argued the case and the Court held that deputy sheriffs were not immune from suit for their negligence in simple driving situations. This was a very important victory for citizens of Virginia.

$185,000 Settlement for Child Injured in Car Accident

Our client was a thirteen year old boy who had his femur fractured when his father's car was hit broadside by a van driven by an electrician. The child needed two surgeries from which he had a pretty good recovery ultimately. The court approved a settlement of $185,000 for the child.

$100,000 Verdict For U.S. Navy Captain

An Arlington County jury awarded our client $100,000 in a case in which the insurance company had offered just $25,000. Our client, a Captain in the United States Navy, had been injured when hit from behind in an automobile accident. She was treated for her injuries, but continued to have neck pain two years after the accident. We proved that she had to give up a major command in the Navy and ultimately had to resign from the Navy because her pain interfered with the physical fitness requirements. She had about $4,000 in medical bills.

Twenty days before trial, State Farm admitted liability for the crash. Despite the fact that there was no legitimate defense to the case, State Farm waited until the day before trial to offer our client any money to settle the case. We immediately rejected State Farm's offer and went to trial.

This case demonstrates, once again, that the insurance companies will always hold onto the money, no matter what the merits of the case, until you take it from them in trial. If your lawyer is not willing to go to trial in good cases, you will never be offered true value in your case.
