RE: Didlake, Inc.

Dear Mr. Epstein:

On Wednesday of this week, your website, www.straighttalklaw.com was brought to my attention by my client, Didlake, Inc. I reviewed your entire website and particularly the reference to Didlake, Inc. I am very surprised that you chose to publicize this issue.

At all times, Didlake denied responsibility to the alleged injuries to Mr. Jiminez. Our Circuit Court ruled correctly under Virginia Law as a preliminary matter that the suit was barred by the doctrine of charitable immunity. Mr. Glass did in fact appeal this case to the Virginia Supreme Court which has already denied his appeal and in so doing affirmed the law in Virginia.

Why you would choose to expound about an issue that in no way impacts on your practice in the State of Washington is beyond my understanding. Why you would intentionally misstate the facts of the situation is even more disturbing.

I am writing to you to call this matter to your attention and to demand that you immediately remove all reference to Didlake, Inc. from your Website and that you further agree to not make any reference to this case or to Didlake, Inc. on this or any other site owned or controlled by you in the future.

Should you wish to discuss this matter with me, please feel free to contact me. The timing of your response will be carefully considered by my client as it considers further action.

Very truly yours,

Bruce A. Gross
